WHAT CAN THE POOR JUDGES DO WHEN THEY FINISH LIKE THIS?

This is a fair sample of the sort of battles being fought on the track at Saratoga. It is easy enough to pick the winner in s windup like this, but how about the second and third horses? The judges have no pictures to study; they have to base their action on what they see in a fraction of a second.

The meeting of the stewards was a representative one, there being present August Belmont, H. K. Knapp, F. R. Hitcheock, Andrew Miller and Schuyler L. Parsons. That H. D. (Curley) Brown's efforts to bring about peace with the ruling body has not yet been successful was evident from the fact that the application of the Maryland State Pair, in which Brown is interested, to conduct a race meeting at Laurel from October 1 to 31 was laid on the table.

ber 1 to 31 was laid on the taste.

The Charleston Fair and Racing Association received permission to hold a race meeting at Charleston, S. C., for the month of December, 1918, and January, 1914. The accretary was instructed to inform them that their application for a continuance of the meeting would be considered at a future session of the turf solons.

In schooling of jumpers between the races to-day there was a little excitement for the spectators when Summary came down at the first jump. Chartrand, the rider, was stunned by the fall, but revived before the ambulance reached him. Mr. Hitchcock's Bayport, a three-year-old eligible for the Harbor Hill cup, did the best work and finished far in front of the others. Colonel Cook, which won the fifth race, was bid up by John O. Talbott, and he got the horse for $1,000, an advance of $500 over his entered price.

James Butler is gradually reentering the racing field. He started Compliment, a five-year-old gelding by Ort Wells, in the first race and provided the surprise of the race by finishing third. Compliment was quoted at 50 to 1 in a field of seven.

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—Manager Joe Cantillon of the Minneapolis club has inaugurated a procedure that is being followed now by every other team in the American Association. Early this year, while he and his team were on their way from Minneapolis to Indianapolis Chicago on an open date and Joe took the players out as his guests to see a game between the Cubs and Dodgers. They all sat together in boxes and the manager called their attention from time to time to features of the play. Whenever the proper conditions of an open date and trip arise now there is an American Association team watching the game here.
